I like to study foreign languages, because this opens up many new opportunities to learn about the world. Communication is one of the best ways, in my opinion, to understand the culture and mentality of the people of another country. To learn from other people a lot of interesting information about possible perspectives, to learn from their experience. In addition, I am all for universal global tolerance. So that people rely not on their belonging to their country or a certain nationality, but as many people as possible consider themselves to belong to such a group of people as a "people of the world". Undoubtedly, the knowledge of one's traditions, history and culture is necessary. This is our heritage, but the limits of travel, communication, and all kinds of exchange have expanded globally in recent years.

Interests: sports, jurisprudence, cooking, learning foreign languages.
